dice against the State Guard, on account of its supposed sympathy with the Southern Rights party. The action of the Guard in the past is a complete vindication of its freedom from partisanship; and its past fidelity to Kentucky is the highest guarantee of its future devotion to the service of the State. future devotion to the service of the State. The assaults now being made so industriousy against the Guard are prompted alone y partisan motives. The Guard is assailed about cause it is supposed its members-being chiefly Kentuckians and Southerners-sym pathize with Kentucky and the South. The aud d disbandment of the State Guard has been for be inaugurated by the authorities at It is a most efficient military organizationand alike, a safeguard and an honor to the State. The repeal of the law establishing the Guard would create much bitterness of feeling, and would be productive of evil, and evil only, and we carnestly trust that the attempt will not be made. The members of the State Guard, have at considerable cost, rovided themselves with uniforms, and have be guilty of perpetrating. We do not think the members of the State Guard should be at all apprehensive of the disbandment of their organization. On the contrary, they should go to work with renewed energy; fill up their companies; organize new ones; and be ceaseless in their activity to perfect themselves in military exercises. And would it not be well for the friends of the Guard-as the State authorities will no longer pay the expenses of encampments—to tender to one or two regiments a sufficient amount of provisions, &c., to enable them to establish a temporary camp for military drill and instruction. The citizens of Fayette, Bourbon, Scott, and Harrison, who are friendly to the Guard, should at once move in this matter, and in this way show their appreciation of the services of the Guard as well as do the State some service .- Lou.
